Introduction to the Series

Getting Equipped, Volume 1 is the first in a series of discipleship curriculum from Equippers. It is specially designed for use in India for those who have decided to follow Jesus and are looking to grow in knowledge, understanding and faithfulness. To accomplish these multi-faceted goals, we have designed this curriculum with many distinctive features: character dialogues that introduce the lesson topics, group singing, videos from the BibleProject, discussion questions, and a variety of learning activities.

This learning is rooted in biblical teaching, the most reliable source of divine knowledge. While the sessions are intended to be informative, the focus is not on presenting a lot of information. Rather, these sessions utilize learning tactics designed for participants to learn as a group, to explore the deeper meanings of the Bible, and to consider how God's people are called to live.

Getting Equipped uses participatory learning methods which contrasts with lecture methods that are so common in India. It is intended that the leader using these lessons be a facilitator of learning, not the expert who has all the answers. In the learning process to discern God's will, understanding is developed through a process of examining Scripture and then discussing open-ended questions with other learners. One of the goals is to consider how to put biblical principles into practice in everyday life.

The target audience for Getting Equipped are Christians aged 15 and above. As you go through these lessons, you will notice they follow a consistent pattern. In the margin, you will notice a variety of icons. These make it easier to identify when to sing, perform a dialogue, or play a video. The first one you will encounter is the music icon shown in the corner below. This indicates time for a group worship song. You may choose to sing one of the recommended songs or select other songs, in any language, that fit the theme of the lesson.

The next graphic in these lessons features a thumbnail from the playlist of Introductory Dialogues for Volume 1 of Getting Equipped. These dialogues introduce the topic of each lesson. Scanning the QR code will link to the playlist of Introductory Dialogues for all of Volume 1. From there, you may select the video for your particular lesson.

The most notable feature in Getting Equipped are the videos from the BibleProject. These brief but information-packed animated videos represent the main ideas and lesson content for most of the sessions.

The entire collection of English BibleProject videos are available at:

<https://YouTube.com/BibleProject>

The BibleProject has many learning resources available on their website. You may download your own copy of the videos, posters, video notes, find links to related podcasts, and more at:

We hope that Getting Equipped will be part of a life changing experience as you gather together with like minded individuals who want to deepen their understanding of the Bible and grow in their knowledge of God. May these lessons help you develop your character so that you live a life worthy of the Lord, bearing fruit in love and good works.

Understanding God

Session 1 – The Good News of God’s Kingdom

Lesson Objectives: Participants will be introduced to the biblical theme of the Kingdom of God. This helps to explain the identity of Jesus, the mission of God and what is referred to when the Bible talks about “good news”.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Let Your Kingdom Come”, “Seek Ye First” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this session is “The Good News of God’s Kingdom”. We assume that participants are aware that many things are not going right in their society and in the world. For example, there is lots of crime, many people are living in severe poverty, business people cheat their customers, employers don’t pay their workers what they earn, people get sick and die, and some nations are at war. In the midst of such circumstances, Christians have hope for the future. Participants should have an opportunity to critically examine why Christians look forward to a day when wrongs will be set right. The good news of God’s kingdom means God is preparing for a day when there will be peace, justice, no more sickness or death. That is the day when God’s anointed king will rule over the earth. In the meantime, we can recognize Jesus as our king, obey his commands, and experience this good news firsthand.

The Kingdom of God is the main theme of Jesus’ teaching ministry. Despite this, it is often overlooked and its implications are misunderstood. For example, many aren’t sure whether God’s kingdom is something we build or something that we cooperate with, whether the kingdom is a present reality, a future hope, or both. If considered a present reality, people are confused with whether its primary nature is spiritual, social, or political.

This lesson will not answer those complicated questions. Rather, it aims to introduce the topic of the Kingdom of God. This is a theme that needs to be considered if one wants to understand the overall message of the Bible and the role of Jesus of Nazareth as God’s Messiah, his anointed ruler who has been given all authority in heaven and on earth.

“Can We Hope?”

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following question:

- Have you ever faced circumstances similar to Sneha’s, where it seemed everything was going wrong and that there was no hope for things getting better?

Bridge:

We live in a world with many problems. Sometimes, those problems are so severe it seems we need to be rescued. This lesson will look at God’s plan for rescuing the world. This plan is centered on Jesus, who came to announce the good news of God’s kingdom. Understanding his teaching on the Kingdom of God is complex and takes more study than we have time for today, but we want to introduce this topic and begin the journey of understanding why the good news of God’s Kingdom is the source of hope for those who believe in and follow Jesus.

Read: Mark 4:11-12, 30-34

Discussion Question:

- Why do you think that the teaching of the Kingdom of God is such a mystery?

Bridge:

The theme of the Kingdom of God was the central message of Jesus’ teaching. It is also a theme that runs throughout the Bible. As you read the Bible from Genesis to Revelation, you may be surprised how often this theme appears, even if that exact term is not used.

Session 2 – The Holiness of God

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will consider what it means to be holy, going beyond their initial thoughts and stereotypes. They will then reflect on how holiness relates to and informs our understanding of how to approach God’s presence.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “You Are Holy \(As for Me and My House\)”, “Revelation Song” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this session is “The Holiness of God”. The terms “holy” and “holiness” are used to describe both people and God. Sometimes, the connotations are positive while other times they conjure up negative reactions. In this lesson, we will look at how holiness describes God and how the holiness of God affects people who interact with God.

God is the creative force behind the whole universe, the only being with the power to make a world full of such beauty and life. These abilities make God utterly unique, which is the meaning of the word ‘holy’. There is a paradox at the center of God’s own holiness. If a person is impure, God’s presence is dangerous.

In the Bible, the solution to this danger is to become “pure”, which involves living with moral purity. But the Bible also talks about being ritually pure. That is why God gave the Israelites clear instructions in the Torah for knowing when they were impure. He also provided steps to become pure so that people could go into the temple again and survive being in God’s presence.

The meaning of ritual purity remained a mystery until the arrival of Jesus. He touched people who were impure. When he touched them, their impurity should have transferred to Jesus, making him impure. Instead, Jesus’ purity transfers to them and actually heals their bodies.

Jesus claimed he was the human embodiment of God’s own holiness and that he and his followers were now God’s temple. Through them, God’s holy presence goes out into the world to bring life, healing and hope.

- How many of you have ever caught an illness or disease from someone else?

- Catching a disease from someone else is not so unusual. But consider the other way around. Do you think it is possible to spread health and healing?

Bridge:

Spreading health is not a common experience, unless you are working in health care but this concept might help us understand holiness, the theme of this lesson.

- How do these ideas affect the way you approach prayer? What about worship or other areas of your spiritual life?
- How does the concept of holiness affect your relationships with other people? What about the way you approach serving others?

Session 3 – The Lordship of God

Lesson Objectives: Participants should explore the concept of God being Lord or King from both the Hebrew Bible and the gospels. They will also consider the implications of this for how his followers are to live in faithful obedience to him.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Jesus Messiah”, “Lion and the Lamb” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: Leader briefly explains the theme of this session, “The Lordship of God”. The theme of God’s authority and his role as lord over all runs throughout the Bible. Nowhere is this more evident than in the title we associate with Jesus: the “Christ” or “Messiah”. But many people don’t really understand the meaning or implications of God’s lordship. It starts with the plans God had for humans to rule over his earth, while remaining faithful to his authority over them. When humanity rebelled against him, the peaceful order of the earth fell apart.

So God made a plan to restore the goodness of the earth, in his timing. He promised to send a king who would redeem the world, right the wrongs, and restore God’s authority. This is who we refer to as the “Messiah”. Through prophets, God had prepared his people, the nation of Israel, to expect a Messiah, a ruler who would establish God’s rule over his people and over his creation.

When Jesus came and talked about the coming of the Kingdom of God, many people did not recognize how his teaching fulfilled the expectations of the law and the prophets. The Jews were expecting a king more like David, who would rule on a throne in Jerusalem. But Jesus had a broader perspective of the kingdom. He was looking forward to the day when he will come back and finish the work, destroy death and evil once and for all, and restore the goodness of the garden of Eden.

After his resurrection, Jesus told his followers he has been given all authority, in heaven and on earth. Because of this delegation, they were to go and make disciples. Disciples are people who live under God’s authority by listening to his voice and obeying all of Jesus’ commands. The good news is that Jesus is king, the Messiah. This is the good news of the Lordship of God.

“Who is in charge?”

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following question:

- How often do you act like Kumar, allowing your own interests to take priority over respecting whoever is in authority?

Bridge:

Throughout our lives, we deal with the issue of either cooperating with authority or resisting authority. That theme is also central to the story of the Bible and to the promise of a Messiah, God’s anointed authority, which will be the focus of this session.

Group Sing: "Jesus Messiah" "Lion and the Lamb" or other selection.

Pray: Together as a group recite Psalm 103:17-19, then have someone offer a closing prayer.

Session 4 – The Holy Spirit of God

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will examine a biblical perspective regarding the Holy Spirit. Included will be a study of the Hebrew word for spirit: ruakh, whose meaning should provide insight for better understanding God, humanity, death, and new life.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Spirit of the Living God”, “Here I Am to Worship” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: In this lesson, we will be learning about the Holy Spirit of God. The Spirit is the way the biblical authors talk about God’s personal presence. When most people talk about spirits, they seem to presume that the spirit is something that can, and sometimes does, exist apart from one’s body. However, the biblical concept of spirit is more like the life within one’s body.

The Hebrew word for spirit, ruakh, refers to a number of different things. All of them are related to energy. Ruakh can refer to the invisible energy that makes the clouds move, the tree branches sway, or the energy in your body that you get from breathing deeply. This is the same word the Bible uses to describe God’s personal presence. Just like wind and breath are invisible, so God’s Spirit is invisible. Wind is powerful and so God’s Spirit is powerful. And just as breath keeps us alive, so God’s Spirit sustains all of life.

While God’s Spirit created a really good world, humans gave in to evil, unleashing chaos into the world through their rebellion and injustice. To solve the problem, the prophet Jeremiah said God’s Spirit would come and transform the human heart to empower people to truly love God and others. This new heart was connected to the promise of a new covenant and the new creation that would be accomplished through Jesus.

Before Jesus ascended into heaven, he explained that he must go so that he could send the Spirit. Today, the Spirit is still hovering in dark places, revealing the knowledge of God, pointing people to Jesus, and empowering them so they can love God and others.

“Grandpa Died. What now?”

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following question:

- How many of you have seen the body of someone after they died? Describe the difference in their body before and after the person expired.

Session 5 – The Covenant Faithfulness of God

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will be introduced to the concept of a covenant and how covenants are a major theme in the story of the Bible. They reveal the character of God and the source of hope for the future.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Great is Thy Faithfulness”, “Take My Life and Let It Be” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: This lesson, “The Covenant Faithfulness of God” focuses on the covenant relationships that run throughout the Bible. Four times in the Old Testament we are told God initiates a covenant relationship: with Noah, Abraham, the nation of Israel, and with King David. In a covenant, God makes promises. Some are unconditional, reliant only on God’s faithfulness. In God’s covenant with Israel, he asks his partner to be faithful to certain commitments and observe the laws of this covenant.

However, Israel breaks the covenant. They worship other gods and allow horrible injustice. So, they lose their land and are forced into exile. During this time, Israel’s prophets talked about a day when God would restore these covenants in spite of Israel’s unfaithfulness. They called it the ‘New Covenant’.

In the Gospels, Jesus is introduced as the one who fulfills all of these covenant relationships. He is from the family of Abraham, so he will bring the blessings of that family to the whole world. He is the faithful Israelite who truly obeyed the law. Jesus is the king from the line of David who announces that God’s unending kingdom of justice and peace is at hand.

Through these events, we see that God is the faithful covenant partner we are all made to be, but have failed to be. Through Jesus, God has opened up a way for anyone to be in a renewed partnership with him. Despite the failures of humanity, Jesus is committed to making them into partners who become more and more faithful.

The story of the Bible ends with a vision of a renewed world full of goodness and peace. This renewed humanity is there, partnering with God to expand the goodness of his creation. The stories of God’s faithfulness to his covenants in the past give us hope for the fulfillment of his promises for the future.

“A Broken Promise”

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following questions:

- Have you ever failed to keep a promise you made?
- What kind of affect do you think broken promises have on your friends, family and loved ones?

Bridge:

Promises are a common part of close relationships. Keeping them establishes trust while breaking them can harm or even destroy relationships. In this lesson, we will explore the theme of God’s covenant faithfulness and how it informs how we are to love God and love one another.

Understanding the Bible

Session 6 – Learning What the Bible Is

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will be introduced to the history of the Bible. They will examine the concepts of divine revelation and divinely inspired prophets and apostles. We will also introduce the major sections of the Bible.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Revelation”, “Thy Word”, “Living Word”, “Ancient Words”, “Voice of Truth”, “Word of God Speak”, “This is the Air I Breathe” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: In this lesson, “Learning What the Bible Is” participants will learn about the nature and structure of the Bible. The Bible can be compared to a small library of books which emerged from the nation of ancient Israel. Among this civilization were a long line of individuals called prophets. They were God’s messengers who provided a means for humanity to know about God and his will. Biblical prophets viewed Israel’s story as a central part of what God was doing for all humanity.

Altogether, the prophetic texts from Israel tell an epic story about how God is working through the nation of Israel to bring order and beauty out of the chaos of our world. The narrative woven throughout this literature builds up to a hope for a new leader who would come and renew all creation.

The Gospels introduce Jesus of Nazareth as Israel’s Messiah. He fulfilled what was foretold by many of these prophets, including suffering and dying on a cross. But his followers claimed he was raised from the dead. They said Jesus was the long-awaited leader who would restore the world.

Jesus’ earliest followers, called apostles, composed new literary works, forming a “New Testament”. The Gospel tells about the life of Jesus. Acts describes how the Jesus movement spread. The apostles also circulated letters to different Jesus communities all around the ancient world. They saw these writings as part of the Scripture. The apostles wrote all of these as the fulfillment of that epic story found in the earlier prophetic writings. They believed God was speaking to His people through these texts, alongside the Scriptures of Israel to reveal himself, his purposes and his will to all of humanity.

“Learning about God”

Group Discussion: Think about the different ways that people around the world learn about God. Nature, tradition, reasoning, and divine revelation, such as the Bible, are the main sources.

- What do you recall as your earliest thoughts about God?

- When you have a question about God today, where do you look for answers?

Bridge:

While nature reveals something about the characteristics of God, human interpretations of natural observations are generally quite vague. Tradition grounds people, but sometimes it doesn't withstand the scrutiny of questions. Reasoning appeals to the modern person but relies on a finite mind and biased motives to explain complex ideas and seeming contradictions. That leaves us with divine revelation, what is uncovered in sacred literature. In this lesson, we are going to look at the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament to see what they reveal about God, uncovering mysteries we could not know otherwise.

Discussion Questions:

- What do you think Jesus was referring to when he said that the Scriptures testify about him?
- How do you think the Hebrew Bible is connected with the Gospels and the writings of the apostles?

Activity

Find a list of all the books of the Bible. Then, identify which books are included with the following sections of the Bible:

Torah (Law)

Nevi'im (Prophets)

Ketuvim (Writings)

Gospels

Apostles' Writings

Remind participants to start memorizing the books of the Bible. In the next session, there will be a chance to test their memory.

Summary: In this session, we have introduced participants to the history of the Bible and how the Bible is organized. We examined the concepts of divine revelation and divinely inspired prophets and apostles. These foundational concepts will help participants read and better understand the Bible and will be reinforced in the next four sessions.

Group Sing: “Revelation”, “Thy Word” “Living Word”, “Ancient Words”, “Voice of Truth”, “Word of God Speak”, “This is the Air I Breathe” or other selection.

Pray: Together as a group recite Psalm 8:1-9, then have someone offer a closing prayer.

Session 7 – The Story of the Bible

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will learn that though the Bible is a large collection of books, it forms one unified story. Participants will become aware of the major events and themes that shape the Hebrew Bible and lead to the story of Jesus and his followers. This familiarity will help participants put individual stories into their broader context.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Opening Introduction: The focus of this session is “The Story of the Bible”. From the beginning of the world to the vision of a new creation, the Bible tells the story of humanity’s journey of being made in God’s image to cooperate with God in ruling the world. When humanity rebels against God, the peace and order that God created turns into violence and chaos. The Bible tells the story and shares the hope of how God offers the chance for a new way forward.

A large part of the story of the Bible follows the family of Abraham. The rest of the Bible story is about this family who became the nation of Israel. Despite God’s personal guidance, Israel gives in to that same temptation to redefine good and evil on their own terms, apart from God. Israel was warned by their own prophets that these choices would lead them back to Babylon, which is what happened. But God doesn’t end the story there. He promises to send a new leader to Israel to cover for their unfaithfulness.

As the part of the Bible called the Old Testament ends, these promises are left unfulfilled. The story continues into the New Testament with Jesus of Nazareth. He said he was bringing all of God’s promises to their completion. The Jesus Movement quickly spread throughout the world, forming new communities of people who follow the way of Jesus.

The Bible ends by pointing to the future day when all wrongs are made right, when evil is eradicated, heaven and earth are united, and humanity can rule the world, together in the love and power of God.

Session 8 – The Literature of the Bible

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will be introduced to the main literary styles of the Bible. Awareness of literary styles is one of many elements that will strengthen the reader's ability to analyze and understand the Bible for themselves.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer. Group

Sing: "Revelation", "Thy Word", "Living Word", "Ancient Words", "Voice of Truth", "Word of God Speak", "This is the Air I Breathe" or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this session is "The Literature of the Bible". The Bible is a collection of many books telling one unified story from beginning to end. But all those books were written in different literary styles. Think of it being like a bookstore where there are different categories of literature such as history, poetry or nonfiction. They are all literature but they communicate in different ways. The same thing is true for the Bible. If you do not pay attention to the style it is written in, you will miss some of what it is trying to say.

There are three main types of literature in the Bible: narratives, poetry, and prose discourse. Narratives are stories, the most universal form of human communication. Stories train us to make sense of the seemingly random events that happened in life by taking those events and then putting them in a sequence. Together you can start to see the meaning and purpose of it all.

Poetry speaks through creative language linking together images that help us envision the world differently. Prose discourse are speeches, letters, or essays. The focus is constructing a sequence of ideas into one linear argument that requires a logical response.

Most books of the Bible have more than one literary style. They have a primary literary style, like narrative. But then embedded in the narrative, you will come across poems, parables, or a collection of laws. Every biblical book is a unique combination of literary styles. To read a book of the Bible well, we should be familiar with each literary type and how it works.

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue.

- In this age, do you still read books, or just online media?

Bridge:

Literature comes in many styles and are seldom mutually exclusive. Narratives connect people with events and help us make meaning out of life. Poetry appeals to our creativity, emotions and imagination while prose discourse satisfies our need for logical reasoning. The Bible features all of these styles of literature, reflecting the complexity of our humanity.

Group Discussion: Think about your favorite stories in the Hebrew Bible and in the New Testament.

- Which style of literature are you more drawn toward? Would you rather read the stories in Genesis, the poetry of Psalms, or the prose discourse of Romans?

Ask participants if any of them are ready to recite all the books of the Bible, in order. Encourage the rest of them to continue memorizing them, as we will ask again in the next session.

Summary: In this session, we have learned about the main literary styles of the Bible, elements that will strengthen the reader's ability to understand the Bible for themselves.

Pray: Together as a group recite Psalm 3:3-8, then have someone offer a closing prayer.

Session 9 – The Timeline of the Bible

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will learn an overview of the biblical story separated into 16 chapters. This will help them better understand the chronological order of the events and how different parts of the Bible relate to one another. Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Revelation”, “Thy Word”, “Living Word”, “Ancient Words”, “Voice of Truth”, “Word of God Speak” “This is the Air I Breathe” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this lesson is “The Timeline of the Bible”. This will help you understand the flow of the biblical story. Knowing this 16-part summary will help you read the Bible for yourself and see how one part relates to another. The Bible is a collection of many books written over a long period of time. Altogether, they tell one unified story.

The sixteen chapters presented in this lesson are as follows:

- 1) Creation and Fall
- 2) The Covenant with Abraham
- 3) The Exodus from Egypt
- 4) The Covenant at Mt. Sinai
- 5) The Wilderness
- 6) The Promised Land
- 7) The Rise and Fall of Israel’s Kingdom
- 8) The Prophets Before the Exile
- 9) The Wisdom of Israel
- 10) The Prophets of the Exile
- 11) The Return from Exile
- 12) The Prophets After the Exile
- 13) The Story So Far: Chronicles
- 14) Jesus and the Kingdom
- 15) The People of the Kingdom
- 16) The Revelation

These sixteen chapters do not exactly follow a timeline or the book order found in most Bibles. Nonetheless, it will help readers understand the flow of the biblical story and how one part of the Bible relates to the others and how they all lead to Jesus.

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue.

- When have you found history to be interesting?

Bridge:

Today we are going to learn the basic chronology of the Bible. We will follow the timeline of the Bible by dividing the books into 16 chapters that help us understand the connection between the different parts of the Bible and how they lead to one, unified story that leads to Jesus.

Summary: In this session, participants were introduced to an overview of the biblical story separated into 16 chapters. This will help them better understand the chronological order of the events and how different parts of the Bible relate to one another.

Group Sing: “Revelation”, “Thy Word”, “Living Word”, “Ancient Words”, “Voice of Truth”, “Word of God Speak” “This is the Air I Breathe” or other selection.

Session 10 – The Public Reading of Scripture

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will become aware of the practice of publicly reading Scripture and will be encouraged to participate in this practice themselves.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Revelation”, “Thy Word”, “Living Word”, “Ancient Words”, “Voice of Truth”, “Word of God Speak”, “This is the Air I Breathe” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this lesson is “The Public Reading of Scripture”. These words come from Paul’s letter to Timothy, but the practice started much earlier. After the Israelites were rescued from Egypt, they needed to understand their identity. As Moses gathered the people together to read the Scriptures aloud, he reminded them of where they came from, who they were, and the future they were to live for.

When the people finally settled in the Promised Land, Joshua pulled the people together. Once again, they listened to the Scriptures read aloud. After this, the practice of reading Scripture in public seems to have ceased and the people forgot their story. When King Josiah re-discovered the Scriptures centuries later, he was so excited that he called Israel to resume this practice. It sparked a renewal movement. That is, until the people forgot once more and ended up in exile. So when Ezra and Nehemiah came back from the exile, they reminded the people who they were and how they were to live by reading the Scriptures.

Reading Scripture together became a core part of Jewish life. It was done every week as they gathered in the synagogue. Jesus himself did this. When the early church was being established, Paul told Timothy to keep this practice going, to immerse the whole community in the story of the Scriptures.

Something happens when you hear God’s Word read aloud with other people. You do not need anyone to preach or teach. You just listen to the Scriptures then talk about what you have heard. This is what God’s people have always done when they enter into new and uncertain times. They remember their story and who they are through the public reading of the Scriptures.

“The Habits of Life”

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following questions:

- In your childhood, did one of your parents or siblings ever read aloud to you? What do you remember from these readings?

Bridge:

Private habits are much more difficult to maintain than public habits. For example, if children didn't attend school regularly, most of them would not read, do maths, or study science. Public activities create shared values and mutual accountability. In this session, we are looking at the practice of publicly reading Scripture. Public reading provides a different dynamic than private reading in that it gives us a basis for discussing common issues and keeps the word of the Lord in the forefront of our thoughts.

Discussion Question:

- Why do you think the king tore his robes when he heard the words of the Book of the Law read?
- Why was the Lord's anger so great against Israel? (vs. 16-17)

Activity #1

Ask participants if any of them are ready to recite all the books of the Bible, in order. Select volunteers to judge their recitals.

Activity #2

Divide into groups of 4-5 participants and discuss the following: It takes roughly 90 hours to read through the entire Bible. So, it would take less than 20 minutes per day or 2 hours per week to read all 66 books in less than one year. This is roughly equivalent to one mealtime per day. Alone, one is likely to fall away from such a private practice. However, if it were to become part of one's public life, it is much more attainable.

Discussion Questions:

- How could you structure more Scripture reading into your life?
- What are your options for reading privately or listening to the Bible being read?
- What are your options for being part of the public reading of Scripture?

Summary: In this session, participants were made aware of the practice of publicly reading Scripture. Our hope is they will look for ways to participate in this practice themselves. There are many tools that can help, especially for private reading. For example, the YouVersion Bible is a free smartphone app that features many reading plans, a wide variety of translations and even audio Bibles that you can listen to with a group or on your own. Pray: Together as a group recite Psalm 119:17-24, then have someone offer a closing prayer.

Building Christian Character

Session 11 – Listening to and Obeying God

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will learn about the importance of listening to God. After all, faith is our response to the word of God. Faith comes by hearing yet listening involves more than just hearing the words. True listening includes a response to words, including discerning the source of the words and understanding the meaning of the words. We will explore these and other foundational concepts of listening, learning and growing in the knowledge of God.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Step by Step”, “To Obey is Better Than Sacrifice” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this lesson is “Listening to and Obeying God”. In this next section of lessons, we will examine a variety of topics aimed at building the character of those who choose to follow the Lord, according to the teachings of Scripture. Hearing the word of the Lord and growing in the knowledge of the Lord is the foundation of discipleship, but the process is not complete until the follower is living out the commands of the Lord. That idea is not that complex, but its importance is often overlooked.

In Session 6, we looked at the concept of divine revelation as the source of the Scriptures. In this session, we will look at divine revelation as the source of personal faith. As Jesus said, “My sheep know my voice.” Discerning God’s voice is integral to a fuller understanding of listening to and obeying God.

Beyond discerning the Lord’s voice, listening connects hearing with doing and understanding metaphors and other symbolic language. In this lesson, we will explore these broader implications of listening and then see how they connect to the process of learning and growing in the knowledge. After all, to build Christian character, one must assume the posture of an active learner, where ideas are translated into loving action and faithfulness to our Lord.

“Are you listening to me?”

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue.

- How often do you hear words as if they were noises?
- How do you prioritize your listening to filter out noise and concentrate on what is really important?

Bridge:

At first glance, it would seem that listening was a rather simple concept. But upon further examination, we see that there are many complexities related to listening, such as discerning the Lord’s voice, connecting hearing with doing, and understanding metaphors and other symbolic language. In this lesson, we will explore these broader implications of listening.

Bridge:

As we have seen, listening involves much more than receiving information. Altogether, it represents a spectrum of the process of learning, which we will examine in this session's final activity.

Activity - The Cycle of Learning

The prayer in Colossians 1:9-10 gives us insight into the learning process of those who follow Jesus. See if you can identify four parts of what may be referred to as the “cycle of learning”. Fill in the labels for each stage in the blanks provided.

The Cycle of Learning

Summary: In this session, we have learned about the importance of listening to God. Listening involves more than just hearing the sound of the words, but includes a faithful response to what is heard. As we can see in the cycle of learning, being filled with the knowledge of God’s will is just the beginning of the process. True hearing leads to living a life worthy of the Lord, pleasing him in every way, bearing fruit in every good work and growing in a personal knowledge of God. Going through this process develops greater spiritual insight and wisdom about God’s will so that the cycle can continue toward increasing faithfulness.

Group Sing: “Step by Step”, “To Obey is Better Than Sacrifice” or other selection.

Pray: Together as a group recite Psalm 17:6-9, then have someone offer a closing prayer.

Session 12 – The Beginning of Wisdom

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will look inward to develop their personal character, starting with the fear of the Lord. We will introduce the idea that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom and will give space for participants to consider the meaning of this precept. Participants will also become familiar with the book of Proverbs, its structure and main themes. In particular, they will learn about the Hebrew concept of wisdom, chokma, and how it is a resource for experiencing the good life.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “The Fear of the Lord”, “Be Thou My Vision” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this session is “The Beginning of Wisdom”. In today’s global culture, young people are taught to avoid fear. Questioning authority seems to be an admirable quality. Yet, the Bible instructs us that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. How does fear lead us to wisdom? We are usually afraid of something that has the potential to destroy us. If we are walking near a street with cars passing by, we are wise to fear the cars since they can harm us. We are taught that God is love. If that is true, why should we fear God? Well, fear is not the fruit of God’s Spirit, but it is the first step toward outcomes of love, joy, peace, patience and other godly virtues.

For most of us, wisdom means knowledge. But the Hebrew word chokma means much more than just mental activity. It refers to action such as a skill or applied knowledge. The purpose of Proverbs is to help you develop a set of practical skills for living well in God’s world.

So wherever people are making good or just or wise decisions, they are tapping into chokma . And whenever someone is making a bad decision, they are working against chokma . It is like a moral law of the universe. It is a cause-effect pattern and no one can escape it. You show you possess chokma when you put it to work and develop the skill of making a good life.

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following questions:

- How did Kumar feel about going into a meeting with his boss?
- How did his preparations for the meeting reflect the respect he has for his boss?

Bridge:

God’s people are to reflect to the wisdom of their Lord. Wisdom comes with time and faith filled learning. But it has a starting point and a purpose. In this lesson, we will examine both of those, as we also study the Hebrew word for wisdom, chokma.

Israel's Request for a King – 1 Samuel 12:12-22

Jesus' disciples in the stormy boat – Matthew 8:23-25

Summary: In this session, we have looked inward to develop participants' personal character, starting with the fear of the Lord. We explored the idea that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. We also studied the Hebrew concept of wisdom, chokma, which is central in the book of Proverbs and is a critical resource for experiencing the good life.

Group Sing: “The Fear of the Lord”, “Be Thou My Vision” or other selection.

Pray: Together as a group recite Psalm 19:7-9, then have someone offer a closing prayer.

Session 13 – Loving God and Loving Others

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will consider how to live according to God’s will, which can be summarized by loving God and loving one another. Since love is the heart of God’s character, it is central to how he wants his people to live.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Love God Love People”, “I Will Follow” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this session is “Loving God and Loving Others”. By carefully looking at the biblical teaching on loving God and loving others, we will examine the more complete meaning of the Hebrew word for love in the Bible, ahavah. Ahavah refers to the kind of affection or care that one person shows another.

God doesn’t love people because they earn or deserve it. His love simply emanates from his character. It is what comes naturally and is expressed both in God’s sentiments toward people and in his actions.

Human love is easily corrupted by humanity. But, when humans are led by God and filled with his Spirit, human love becomes more like God’s love and shows itself through actions. God-like love is selfless and looks out for the well-being of others. This takes on many forms, including helping those in need, such as defending the cause of the fatherless, sharing food with the hungry, or providing the homeless person with shelter and warm clothing to protect them from the cold of winter.

God’s people are to imitate God’s love by showing love for others. When we consider what the Lord asks of his people, we read it is to fear the Lord, to walk in his ways, to love him, serve him and to keep his commands. Even his commands, however, are centered on putting love into action. As we will see in this session, God delights in people being in right relationship with one another. In fact, we could even say that the main way that God wants us to show our love for him is to love our neighbor as ourself.

Session 14 – Seeking Justice

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will explore the complexities of justice and how it relates to understanding the character of God and his command to love your neighbor.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Micah 6:8 Song” , “Days of Elijah” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this lesson is “Seeking Justice”. The Bible teaches us that humans are created in the image of God. Consequently, all people are viewed as being equal before God and are expected to treat one another with dignity and fairness. Perhaps this is why, throughout history, humans have always seemed to care about justice, especially when there is an absence of it, which is nearly universal. After all, humans have fought to define good and evil for themselves. This has brought much injustice.

The Bible teaches God’s people to keep the way of the Lord by doing righteousness and justice. The biblical Hebrew word for righteousness is tsedeka. Doing righteousness implies being a good person. But tsedeka goes beyond that, with an ethical standard that expects people to be in right relationship with others, treating them as being made the image of God.

The Hebrew word in the Bible for justice is mishpat. This can refer to retributive justice, paying for the consequences of our actions. But most often, mishpat refers to restorative justice. This means going a step further, actually seeking out vulnerable people who are being taken advantage of and helping them. Some people call this charity but mishpat involves much more. It means taking steps to advocate for the vulnerable and changing social structures to prevent injustice. So, justice and righteousness are about a radical, selfless way of life.

God’s response to humanity’s legacy of injustice is the life of Jesus who lived righteously and pursued justice. Yet he died on behalf of the guilty. His resurrection points us toward the renewed creation when God will restore justice and righteousness throughout.

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following questions:

- Why do you think people care so much about fairness?
- How do you feel when you are a victim of injustice?

Bridge:

It seems that we are born with a desire for justice. When we experience injustice, we react, sometimes strongly. When facing powers and authorities too great to bend to our protests, however, we learn to silence our dissatisfaction and yield to those powers. In such cases, we might ask why the Lord allows such injustice to prosper. In this session, we will explore these themes and seek some answers.

_____ Care for widows and orphans (James 1:27)

Application

Have each participant think about first-hand situations that result in injustice. Have them consider if there is a way they could be involved to bring justice and mercy to those involved.

Summary: In this session, we have explored the complexities of justice and how it relates to understanding the character of God and his command to love one another.

Session 15 – Becoming a Peacemaker

Lesson Objectives: In this session, participants will learn about the role of a peacemaker, looking at the biblical words for peace, the ministry of reconciliation and how peacemaking fits into the broader scope of the Christian life. Participants will consider the implications of how peacemaking reflects the kingdom of God and how the people of God should live with and love their neighbors.

Pray: Have someone open the session by leading in prayer.

Group Sing: “Reconciliation Song”, “I Could Sing of Your Love Forever” or other selection.

Opening Introduction: The theme of this session is “Becoming a Peacemaker” which is the final lesson in the section on Building Christian Character and in Volume 1 of Getting Equipped. In the previous sessions in this section on Building Christian Character, we have seen that God delights in his people being in right relationship with one another. Yet, being in a world that is living with the consequences of humanity defining good and evil for themselves results in violence, dishonesty, and many forms of hostility. In other words, the world needs peacemakers.

When people talk about peace, they are usually referring to the absence of war. In the Bible, peace also points to the presence of something better in its place. The most basic meaning of the biblical words for peace is complete or whole. In verb form, they mean “to make complete” or “to restore”. This can apply to both repairing physical damages and restoring broken human relationships.

In the book of Proverbs, to “bring peace” means to reconcile and heal a broken relationship. In the New Testament, we learn that Jesus’ followers are called to create peace. Becoming people of peace means representing a king who promises peace throughout his kingdom. This will be inaugurated when all his creation is made new and he exercises his authority over all creation. Participating in the ministry of reconciliation gives people a prophetic foretaste of the peace that will characterize God’s kingdom and the New Creation. This fuels hope for the future God has in store for us.

Group Discussion: Ask participants to reflect on the dialogue then discuss the following questions:

- Have you ever found yourself in a situation similar to Kumar’s neighborhood, where people are against each other? How did you respond?
- What does it take for someone to come in and arbitrate peace between opposing sides?

Bridge:

There are many ways that peace is destroyed, hurting families, communities and even nations. Broken promises, rivalries and struggles for power and control are some of the common sources. In such situations, we need peacemakers. In this session, we will look closer at the meaning of peace and the dynamics of reconciliation and peacemaking.

- Why do you think peacemakers are called “children of God”?

Read: James 3:17-18

Discussion Question:

- How are wisdom and righteousness related to peacemaking?

Read: Matthew 5:23-24

Discussion Question:

- Why do you think it is a higher priority to restore a broken relationship than to make an offering to the Lord?

Read: Matthew 18:15-17

Discussion Question:

- What is the process for dealing with wrongdoing by those in your same church fellowship?

Read: Romans 5:10, Colossians 1:19-20

Discussion Question:

- How do you think Jesus' death on the cross reconciled us with God, or made peace between us?

Read: 2 Corinthians 5:17-19

Discussion Question:

- Why do you think the new creation is connected to the ministry of reconciliation?

Activity

Read the stories of these biblical characters and consider how they served as peacemakers.

Abraham & Lot (Genesis 13:5-12)

Isaac & the Wells of Gerar (Genesis 26:12-22)

Joseph & His Brothers (Genesis 45:1-11)

Application

Think about a situation in your family, school, workplace or neighborhood where there is tension between people who act like one another's adversaries. In groups of 4-5 participants each, discuss ways you might be able to serve as a peacemaker, restoring wholeness to the people involved in this situation. Share some of your ideas with the larger group.

Summary: In this session, we have learned about the vital role of peacemaking. God desires for his world to live in peace. But while that world is in rebellion against his rule, he desires for his people to represent him in the ministry of reconciliation and peacemaking. This is the good news of God's Kingdom!

Group Sing: "Reconciliation Song" , "I Could Sing of Your Love Forever" or other selection.

Pray: Together as a group recite Psalm 29:7-11, then have someone offer a closing prayer.

Getting Equipped, Volume 1

is the first in a series of discipleship curriculum from Equippers. It is specially designed for use in India for those who have decided to follow Jesus and are looking to grow in knowledge, understanding and faithfulness.

This group study curriculum is designed with many distinctive features: dialogues that introduce the lesson topics, group singing, videos from the Bible Project, discussion questions, and a variety of learning activities.

Learners who are eager to break from lecture style teaching will appreciate the way Getting Equipped uses participatory learning methods and draws from a variety of teaching resources. Leaders will value how these tactics grab and keep the attention of your group. More importantly, these lessons are a gateway to opening up deeper meanings of the Bible and finding a path that guides your group toward a collective identity and sense of purpose.
